Dillon Candy Company

George Dillon made his first batch of candy in 1918. Today, the third generation of the Dillon family continues the art of hand-making small batches of specialty nut candies cooked in open copper kettles on old fashioned candy stoves.

Dillon's buttery, award winning brittle, is hand-stretched to be uniquely thin and easy to eat, contains only wholesome, natural ingredients. Discriminating consumers proclaim "This is the best I have ever eaten."

Lamar Pecan Company

Thirty-two years ago, John Lamar, his wife Carol, and their son Bob started Lamar Pecan Co. out of a single tool-box in the trunk of their car. . Since that time the company has continued to grow One of the oldest and largest pecan farms in Georgia, it yields an average of 2 million pounds of pecans per year. The farm's production is comprised primarily of Schley, Desirable, and Stuart blends, and ranges from low-yield blends suitable for the cookie/candy industry to very high-yield top quality nuts suitable for enjoyment straight out of the shell. We hope to continue growing by building relationships with companies in the international market that value the work ethic and integrity that has made our company a success.
